

The 5 Hottest Stories in Fashion Now

Hi, I'm Rajni Lucienne Jacques, GLAMOUR's fashion news editor. Here's what I'm crossing my fingers to find under the tree this month.

3 Yay! Stella McCartney's New Denim Line

Dear Santa, I want everything she's making right now, especially (but not limited to) the Hawaiian-print tunics, jeans and dresses, perfect for that much-needed vacation I'll be taking. Don't disappoint; I'm depending on you. Go to stellamccartney.com.

Jimmy Choo booties, jimmychoo.com

1 The Sexiest Choos

I'm totally in the market for a spiced-up party shoe to bring some drama to my usual LBD. Enter Jimmy Choo's Icons, a capsule collection of heels inspired by 15 of the company's most noted styles. (To my delight, they're also releasing a coffee-table book, Jimmy Choo XV.) My fave? The Anita, a peep-toe, zebra-print pony bootie that's to die for!

4 A Designer T-shirt

The only thing better than a T-shirt is one that gives back. Fifty percent of the profits from (one of my favorites) French designer Isabel Marant's exclusive tee for Gap Red will help eliminate AIDS in Africa.

2 Something Sweet

I became 10 again when I read this book. The Super Adventures of Sophie and the City, about a girl who sneaks into the high-fashion publishing company where her dad works, is the perfect gift. Written by Kelly Florio Kasouf, daughter of the late former Condé Nast Publications president and CEO Steve Florio, it reminds me why I love clothes! ($30, sold exclusively at Barneys New York and barneys.com.)

How cool is this look from Stella McCartney?

5 Daring, Up-to-There Slits

I'm all about the super-high slits seen on the fall runways. I'll be attending a lot of swanky holiday parties (it's a tough life, I know), and the style I'm going for is refined vixen: a little bit of me meets Jessica Rabbit. Wish me luck!
